	*5–6: 'si quis ea monumenta cum aedifici(i)s sui(s) donationis eorum causa dederit, sive vendere voluerit, inferet...'. Demetrius is assumed by Boulvert, (2) 264 n. 42, to be a freedman of Trajan on the basis of his wife's nomen ; this is possible but by no means certain. For Ulpiae as wives of Imperial freedmen with later nomina , e. g. Aurelii Aug. liberti , see Weaver 308ff.

Oceanus sen. Caesaris n. lib.(2864).	Rome C I

	The junior clerical title adiutor is regularly further defined by either a defining genitive naming the grade of bureau personnel in the plural (e.g. tabulariorum) or simply just the name of the bureau involved (e.g. a rationibus). Where the genitive singular is used (e.g. procuratoris) the adiutor is a personal assistant to a superior official and is not necessarily a junior appointment. For the intermediate clerical archivists in a bureau, the usual term was a commentariis, but by the 3rd C. they were sometimes called commentarienses. This the abbreviated titles of their junior assistants were often either adiutor a comm(entariis) or adiutor comm(entariensium). The same rationale would apply to the titles of the more senior clerical proximi tabul(ariorum) and proximi comm(entariensium) or comm(entariorum), as in the case of Menander père above. On this nomenclature: Weaver 231ff., 241f.
